Additional Campus at Perambalur

An additional campus of Dhanalakshmi Srinivasan University (Established under the Tamilnadu Private Universities Act, 2019) was established at Thuraiyur Road, Perambalur. DSU offers a range of programmes in the fields of Medicine, Engineering & Technology, Allied Health Sciences, and Physiotherapy. The campus strictly adheres to the rules and regulations of DSU, which is headquartered at Samayapuram, Tiruchirappalli - 621 112, Tamil Nadu.

Dhanalakshmi Srinivasan Institute of Medical Sciences and Hospital (DSIMSH) was established with a pledge of servicing the economically backward people, especially downtrodden by providing top-notch health care amenities.

The School of Engineering and Technology at Dhanalakshmi Srinivasan University, Perambalur Campus offers innovative education in Science, Engineering, and Technology. The programs are designed to develop highly competent individuals who are well-suited for careers in engineering and scientific research organizations.

The field of Medicine and Healthcare is of utmost importance for any nation's well-being. A robust healthcare system comprises three key components such as medical education, medical technology, and medical research. A nation can only be economically advanced, if its human resources receive proper education, healthcare, and infrastructure. Therefore, healthcare is a top priority for every nation. In line with this national priority, the School of Allied Health Sciences was established in DSU, Perambalur Campus. The objective of this school is to train a generation of skilled professionals to equip the individuals as well-versed and specialized in various medical fields.

DSU, with its team of dedicated academicians, who are experts in both traditional and modern educational methods, strives to provide a curriculum that meets international standards. The University boasts of the state-of-the-art infrastructure and places great emphasis on quality research, specialization, technology development, and community service. In addition to the above said features, DSU aims to become an internationally renowned University and a Center of Excellence in Teaching and Research.
